In this letter, I would like to express my gratitude and appreciation to Ms. Shira Doron-Livne for the workshop on “Psychological First Aid – The Six C's Model” that was delivered yesterday to the teaching laboratories team at the Faculty of Physics.

The workshop was enriching and raised awareness among our team regarding identifying and coping with traumatic and post-traumatic situations—a topic whose importance cannot be overstated, especially during the ongoing war of the past year and a half.

The workshop immediately demonstrated its relevance and sparked a lively and fruitful discussion among the instructors about the scenarios and situations presented.

In addition, I would like to thank Ms. Dalia Peled, Director of the Student Counseling and Support Center. Her lecture introduced our teaching staff to the purpose and functions of the center, the importance of its work, and the ways in which both students and staff can reach out for support. This ties directly into the workshop’s content on psychological first aid and highlights an internal Technion resource that addresses this very issue.

Accordingly, the teaching laboratories team at the Faculty of Physics, along with myself personally, would like to thank Ms. Shira Doron-Livne and Ms. Dalia Peled for their wonderful and important work.

Sincerely,

Dr. Anatoly Goldman
